DOUGLAS NEWS NOTES

Little daughter, who was recently operated on, and is now on the road to recovery.

Seven Mexican families left Douglas yesterday morning for Cananea. They carried all their household goods, and are evidently going there with the expectation of securing employment.

S. M. Greenidge, a surveyor of Cananea left for home yesterday afternoon after having spent several days in Douglas and the mining vicinity south of here.

Mrs. H. P. Wiley left yesterday morning for El Paso, where she will visit her mother for a short while. She will also spend some time at Cloudcroft before returning.

A. L. Penny, a traveling man from San Francisco, was in the city yesterday in the interest of his house, a glove concern. He is an old friend of D. F. Johnson of the Copper Queen store.

I. B. Ward of the C. & A. smelter returned from his vacation yesterday after an absence of nearly a month. He visited Denver, Colorado City, Kansas and other points in the middle west.

R. L. Van Dusen, H. C. Beuschamp and Mr. Tanner left yesterday afternoon for the lower country on the Nacozari trail. They have all enjoyed their stay in Douglas by putting in the time on the golf links at the Country club.

Judge Fletcher M. Dean accompanied by Mrs. Dean and his son John Dean and wife arrived here yesterday morning from Tombstone, and are the guests of Frank Dean at his residence on Elgin street. Mr. and Mrs. John Dean are residents of Silver Bell, Arizona.

Word has been received from the ball players at Nacozari, that they have completed their line up for Sunday's game here and all arrangements for the excursion which will leave that place, have been completed. Judging from their account, quite a large number of people are planning to take advantage of the excursion to visit Douglas.

PARTY OF CAPITALISTS.

DOUGLAS, July 30.—(Special).—A party of capitalists from Thibodaux, Louisiana are stopping at the Gadsden hotel, being here as guests of Captain Thos. McEniry, the promoter of the Sonora Consolidated Mines, which lie in the district immediately south of Douglas. The party consists of Messrs. Thos. Stark, J. V. H. Beary, James Berry, R. F. Brounard and C. P. Sherer. They have been in Cananea for several days, returning from that point last night. The entire party expects to leave this morning early for the mines southeast of Douglas about twenty-five miles, being in charge of Captain McEniry and R. O. Grinnell. They will probably remain at the properties for a couple of days on their tour of inspection, when they will return to Louisiana.

As a result of a cloudburst at Winslow last Thursday, about fifteen hundred feet of Southern Pacific track was washed out, delaying traffic for twenty-four hours.

IDLE FREIGHT CARS ARE DECREASING

Nearly 10,000 More in Use July 8 Than There Were on June 28.

There were 2808 more freight cars in service July 8 than there were June 28, and 119,000 more than April 29. At that date 186,000 coal cars were idle. By July 8 the number had shrunk to 124,000. That is an unerring indication of greater activity on the part of manufacturers. That activity means additional business for the railroads later on.

The progressive diminution in the number of idle cars lends support to the assertion of Interstate Commerce Commissioner Knapp that there will be a shortage this fall. He says that an inquiry into business conditions has convinced him that that will be the situation after the crops shall have been harvested assuming, of course, that the present prospect of good harvests shall not be blighted.

Every idle car that is put in service strengthens the contention of the shippers that railroad rates should not be increased. If all the cars were needed for carrying freight their contention would be irresistible. The roads hardly would have the audacity to assert that they should be permitted to put up next year's rates in order to make up for this year's decrease in receipts. If that were allowed the roads would indeed be in a favored class. Merchants, manufacturers, and wage-workers do not look to the community to indemnify them for losses they sustain during a period of business depression.

If by the close of the year there shall be a demand for all the freight cars the roads own the rates now in force will furnish them adequate revenues. Unless they squander their means by paying excessive dividends it will not be difficult for them to get the money required for improvements which they say ought to be made.

Probably the railroad managers are regulating their own conduct by the demand for freight cars. Early in the year, when so many were idle, they talked of a general advance in rates on the first of October. As that day drew near and business improved they talked of the first of October. The number of idle cars continuing to decrease, they talk now of the first of December. If their cars shall be about all in use as that day draws near, justice and common sense will dictate to them the advisability of saying nothing more about higher rates.—New York Tribune.

LATE RICH STRIKE ON RENFRO PROPERTY

Immense Bodies of Good Paying Ore Found in That District.

KEVIN, July 25.—So numerous have the reports been coming in lately of the rich ore strikes at the valuable Renfro property, now owned by J. Jay Sullivan, a noted mining man of Arizona, that the special mining correspondent of the Phoenix Republican thought it advisable to pay a special visit to this property. On arriving at the mine and after a very careful examination it was found to be all and more than represented. Mr. Renfro, the original discoverer of this property, has been keeping quiet for several years and has gone ahead developing. Numerous tunnels have been run in the mountain and rich, large ledges are to be seen. One tunnel has been run in at the base of the mountain some 200 feet below those above, and at the distance of 35 feet a large deposit of good ore was struck. Several shafts have been sunk, all showing the ore. This property has been thoroughly studied from a geological point as well as from a mineral point and all indications prove conclusively that an immense body of ore is here. It would be a marvellous proposition, thus saving the heavy expense of shaft machinery, and from numerous assays made would be a paying proposition from the start. This property lies in the Dripping Spring wash and but seven miles from Kevin and the river.

Mr. Sullivan, the present owner of the Renfro property, is now on a business trip relating to mines of the Kevin district, and states that if he does not make the Kevin country boom through the Renfro property and others, it will be useless for others to try. This property is, without a doubt, a very lucky find for the Kevin district, and things should be moving very briskly this fall.

Kevin and Ray are beginning to pick up a little each day. There have been numerous visitors in town lately looking after mining properties in this section; also a number of Mexicans coming here. The average very important mining deals closed and this coming fall has a very bright outlook for Kevin and Ray.

The Ray Copper company has recently purchased a track automobile to be used for the convenience of the Ray company officials. The Ray company have several drills now working and will have several more working in a few weeks. All the holes drilled show ore. The average depth has been 350 feet, and from all indications, they have an immense body of low grade ore. It will be handled on a very large scale and this fall there will be several hundred men working at the mill and the mine.

The Big Lead and the Kevin Cigarette company, W. B. Twitcheall, superintendent, have given out publicly that they have $400,000 ready cash in the treasury and that they will commence operations for installing a 500-ton concentrator and get things in shape for starting general operations within a few weeks. Mr. Gillet of Phoenix will be the underground superintendent. This property is a very valuable one and is held at several millions.

ANDERSON-APACHE LONG SINCE PROVED

With Inadequate Equipment Anderson Took Out $200,000 Worth of Ore.

The fact that Robert Anderson, the former owner and operator of the Anderson-Apache mine near Hachita, got paying returns of more than $200,000 from the property, while of necessity using very crude methods, inspires the present operators, most of whom are Bisbee and Douglas capitalists, in the belief that with systematic and entirely modern development work, such as is being given the property by Houle and Houston, it will show that they have a mine of good big proportions. It is this fact—that the property has long since, to a large extent, been proven—that has served to make of the Anderson-Apache such an interesting and promising proposition.

In the old days Mr. Anderson was forced to use methods of mining that are now considered somewhat crude, but considering that it is regarded all the more to his credit, and a favorable reflection upon the merits of the property, that he met with such a great measure of success. The ore then was hauled in wagons 20 miles to the Southern Pacific at Segar, New Mexico, and even then with the very high cost of marketing it paid good profits. Mr. Anderson in those days did not have any too much capital and he lacked, as a consequence, equipment which he should have had. One from the shallow workings was hoisted by windlasses, while at more depth, a horse wheel was employed. From depths below 155 it was necessary to "pack" the ore to that level on the backs of Mexican miners.

But at that the mine paid and the smelter records show that more than $200,000 in copper and silver values was shipped from the property. This was one of the things that looked good to the present controlling company when they took over the property. They believed that if Mr. Anderson could do so handsomely with comparatively crude methods, they, with modern methods and equipment, could make a bigger shipper out of Anderson-Apache. And along that line they are now working with many preliminary indications of success.

The Chile mill of the Monarch Mining and Smelting company, near Wickenburg, was put into commission Saturday morning.
